International reserves amounted to US$ 34,702 million on September 30

In the current international context of high financial volatility, Peru maintains a sound international reserve position.

Net international reserves (NIRs) amounted to US$ 34,702 million on September 30. This sum, equivalent to 3.2 times short-term external debt liabilities, is US$ 7,013 million higher than the one recorded at end 2007 and US$ 216 million lower than that of end August.

NET INTERNATIONAL RESERVES ACCUMULATED

(Millions of US$)

* As of September 30.

The international position of the BCRP on September 30 was US$ 24,585 million, an amount US$ 4,963 million higher than the one registered at end 2007.

Exchange rate at end September: S/. 2.978 per dollar

In September, the nuevo sol reached an average interbank ask price of S/. 2.978 per dollar. Sales of foreign currency carried at the front office of the BCRP during this month amounted to US$ 2,008 million. It should be pointed out that although the Central Bank did not intervene in the exchange market on September 1, 5, 12 and between September 19 and 26, the BCRP sold US$ 419 million on September 29 –the highest amount recorded during this month– and US$ 9 million on September 30. The average interbank ask price posted S/. 2.984 per dollar on October 1.

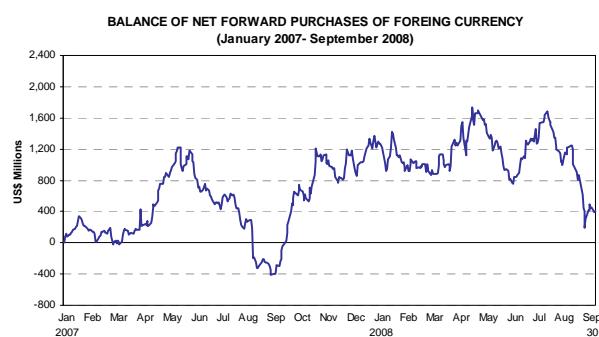

The nuevo sol is one of the least volatile currencies as a result of the BCRP preventive interventions in the exchange market. In the last month the nuevo sol depreciated 1.1 percent, while the Brazilian real, the Colombian peso, the Chilean peso, and the Mexican peso dropped 17.0 percent, 12.8 percent, 7.7 percent, and 6.2 percent, respectively. Outside Latin America, the euro fell 3.9 percent against the US dollar, while the pound fell 2.1 percent and the Korean won fell 10.8 percent against the USD.

EVOLUTION OF EXCHANGE RATE AGAINST US DOLLAR: SEPTEMBER 2008

Between September 23 and 30, banks' balance of net forward purchases of foreign currency declined by US$ 12.1 million. During the month of September, the balance of net forward purchases accumulated a reduction of US$ 820.3 million.

The balance of net forward purchases at September 30 amounted to US$ 388 million, of which US$ 360 million (93 percent) are operations with maturities due in October, and November 2008.

Real exchange rate in September

In September, the real multilateral exchange showed no variation compared to the month of August. This evolution is explained by a 0.6 percent rate of domestic inflation, a 0.3 percent rate of external inflation, and a 0.3 percent nominal depreciation of the nuevo sol against the currency basket of Peru's main trading partners. In the last 12 months, the real exchange rate has declined 4.0 percent.

Inflation: 0.57 percent in September

Inflation in September showed a rate of 0.57 percent and thus accumulated 6.22 percent in the last 12 months. Three items contributed with 0.60 percentage points to this month's inflation rate: urban fares (0.31 percentage points), potato (0.17 points), and citrus fruits (0.12 points). Conversely, three items contributed with -0.19 percentage points to inflation in September: chicken meat (-0.10 points), tomato (-0.05 points) and electricity (-0.04 points).

Inflation in food and beverages in September was 0.40 percent and accumulated 9.5 percent in the last 12 months. Inflation in fuels and electricity was -0.31 percent and thus showed an accumulated rate of 2.1 percent in the last 12 months. On the other hand, the rate of inflation in the rest of goods and services was 0.87 percent (3.4 percent in the last 12 months).

International markets

Average country risk at 258 basis points in September

In September, the average country risk, measured by the EMBI+ Peru spread, increased from 195 to 258 basis points, showing a similar trend to the one observed in the region (the EMBI+ Latin America increased 69 basis points on average). The spreads of the sovereign bonds of emerging markets grew larger due to increased risk aversion associated with renewed concerns regarding a global economic slowdown and due to the price drop of most commodities.

Average price of copper fell to US$ 3.17 per pound in September

In September, the average price of copper dropped from US$ 3.47 to US$ 3.17 per pound (8.7 percent). This evolution is associated with increased fears of a global recession and with higher uncertainty regarding China's demand. On the other hand, temporary supply constraints due to problems at Codelco (Chile), Grasberg (Indonesia), and Southern Copper (Mexico) prevented a greater price drop.

Declining from US$ 838.3 to US$ 828.8 per troy ounce, the average price of gold fell 1.1 percent in September. This price fall is explained by the strengthening of the dollar against the euro and by the strong drop seen in the price of crude, although the fall was offset by India's strong demand for this metal and by purchases of gold as a hedge given concerns about the problems of the financial sector.

The average price of zinc showed an increase of 0.3 percent in September as the price rose from US$ 0.78 to US$ 0.79 per pound. This increase is associated with lower inventories of zinc at the London Metal Exchange, but was offset by the global economy's limited prospects of recovery, which unleashed a take-profit among investors.

In September, the average price of WTI oil dropped from US$ 116.6 to US$ 104.5 per barrel (10.4 percent). Factors contributing to the fall in the price of crude included the weakening of US demand, increased fears of a slowdown of global demand in a context of financial turbulence, and speculative factors associated with the maturity of forward contracts. In addition to this, the impacts of hurricanes Ike and Gustav on the Gulf of Mexico and Texas were minimal.

On average, the dollar appreciated against the euro in September

The dollar appreciated on average 4.0 percent against the euro in September. The strength of the dollar was explained by constraints of liquidity in dollars in international markets given the deepening of the financial crisis and by the FED's decision to maintain its reference rate unchanged, although a reduction was expected.

In September, the dollar depreciated 2.6 percent against the yen due to the reversal of carry trade operations.

Yield on 10-year US Treasuries declined on average to 3.68 percent

In September, the 3-month Libor increased to 2.81 from 3.12 percent showing high volatility over the past few days, while the yield on the 10-year Treasury bond fell from 3.88 to 3.68 percent. This fall in the latter was associated with increased demand for safe assets, such as the Treasuries, following the losses seen in Wall Street (flight to quality effect). This higher risk aversion was due to the deepening of the financial crisis and to fears of a global slowdown.

Lima Stock Exchange fell 15.3 percent in September

In September, the General and Blue Chip indices of the Lima Stock Exchange (LSE) showed unfavorable results dropping 15.3 and 15.9 percent, respectively. The drop in the indices was due to lack of liquidity affecting the local market and to the decline of metal prices in global markets.

The performance of the LSE indices was in line with the negative evolution of world markets, which were affected by the financial crisis that escalated with the nationalization of financial institutions in both the US and Europe.

So far this year, both indices have accumulated losses of 35.8 and 34.7 percent, respectively.
