International Markets

Country risk at 356 basis points

Between April 7 and 14, the country risk indicator –measured by the EMBIG+ Peru spread– fell from 395 to 356 basis points, showing a similar evolution to the one seen in the region's spread, which fell 13 basis points in this period.

The reduction of the spreads of the emerging debt was associated with investors' lower risk aversion and with the rise in the price of commodities, which improved the outlook on the region.

Price of copper rose to US$ 2.08 a pound

In April 7-14, the price of copper rose 6.3 percent to US$ 2.08 a pound, reaching its maximum level in six months.

This price increase was mainly influenced by signals indicating a recovery of China's economy and demand.

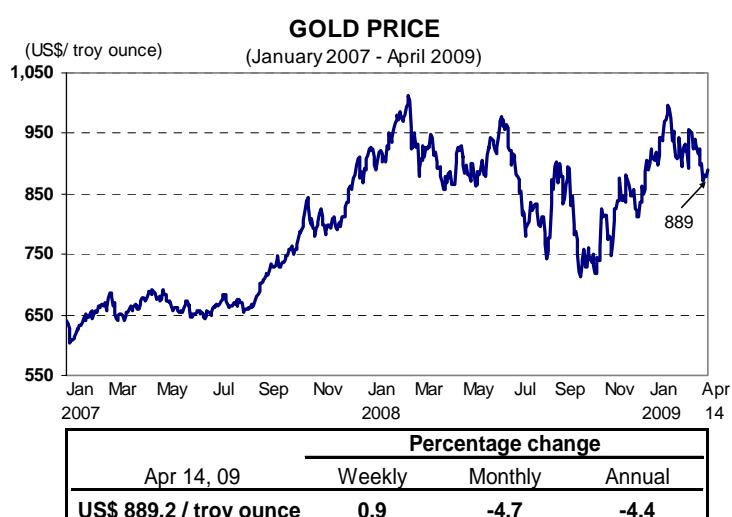

Expectations of higher demand were reflected in a new drop of inventories in the major stock markets. For example, copper inventories have dropped 0.9 percent to 563 thousand tons.

In the same period of analysis, the price of gold rose 0.9 percent, reaching US$ 889.2 per troy ounce.

The price of gold rose due to increased purchases of this metal by investment funds, as well as due to signals of a recovery in China's demand.

The weakness of the dollar against the yen also contributed to the upward evolution of the price of gold.

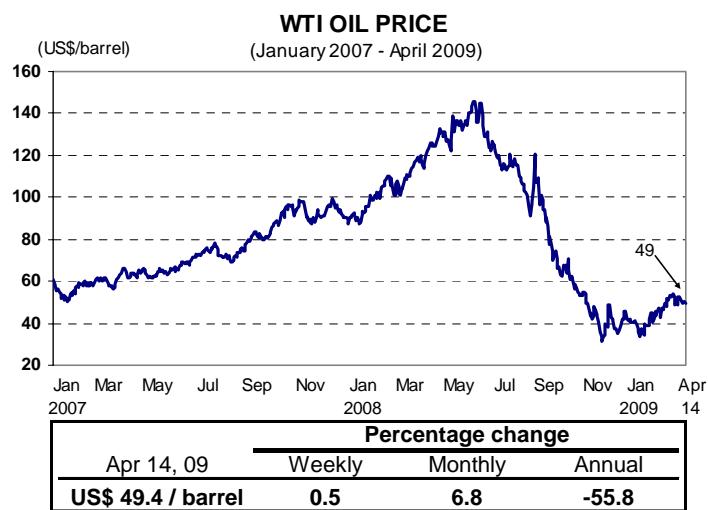

resumen informativo

Between April 7 and 14, the price of zinc increased 6.2 percent to US$ 0.64 a pound, reaching its highest level in the last six months. This increase was influenced by expectations of a recovery of China's demand and by the new fiscal stimulus plan announced by Japan.

However, this increase was partially offset by reports from the ILZSG that showed that the global market of zinc had had a surplus of 56 thousand tons in the first two months of 2009.

The price of WTI oil rose 0.5 percent and reached US$ 49.4 a barrel between April 7 and April 14.

Information showing that China's imports of crude almost reached a record level and a lower-than-expected increase in US inventories of crude were the main factors explaining this price rise. These two factors offset the reduction of the demand for crude that the International Energy Agency had forecast for 2009.

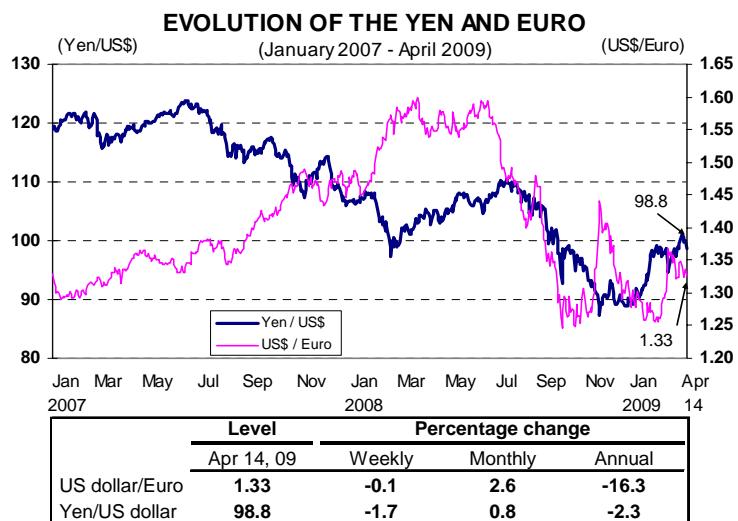

Dollar appreciated against the euro

Between April 7 and April 14, the dollar appreciated slightly against the euro (0.1 percent).

The dollar continued appreciating against the euro, although at a lower pace given the continuous deterioration of the European economy. Jean-Claude Trichet, president of the ECB, admitted that economic growth in the region is undergoing a severe contraction, coupled by a reduction of inflationary pressures.

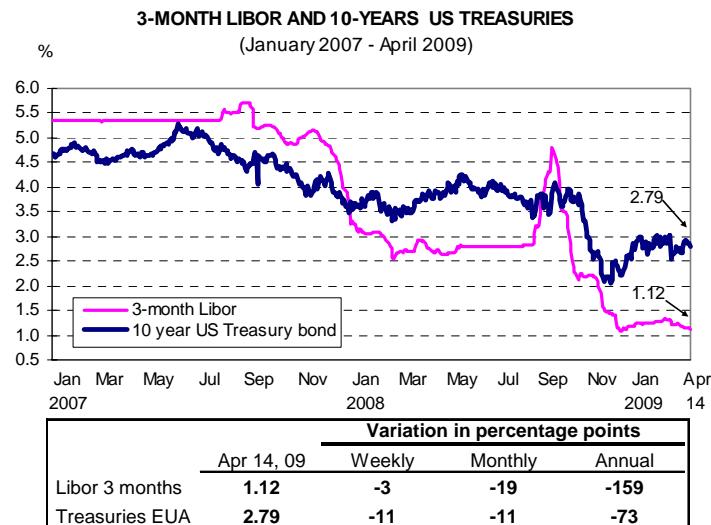

On the other hand, the dollar depreciated 1.7 percent against the yen.

Yield on 10-year US Treasuries declined to 2.79 percent

Between April 7 and 14, the 3-month Libor fell from 1.15 to 1.12 percent and the yield on the 10-year Treasury bond declined from 2.90 to 2.79 percent.

This decline in the yield on the US Treasury bond was associated with an intensification of FED purchases of US Treasuries.

Lima Stock Exchange grew 12.2 percent

So far this month (at April 14), the General and Blue Chip indices of the Lima Stock Exchange (LSE) have grown 12.2 and 14.6 percent, respectively.

Moreover, both indices showed positive evolutions during the week of analysis (April 7-14) and grew 3.8 and 5.9 percent, respectively, boosted by the price rises of both basic and precious metals, as well as by optimistic views given the likelihood of a re-activation of demand in China.

Year-to-date, these indices have accumulated gains of 47.0 and 44.1 percent, respectively.
