International Markets

Country risk at 169 basis points

On March 2, the EMBIG Peru recorded 169 basis points.

In February, the average country risk, measured by the EMBIG Peru spread, increased to 200 basis points from 180 basis points in January. The evolution of the EMBIG PERU is similar to that of the region's spread, which increased 21 basis points in this period.

This increase in the Latin American debt spread is associated with higher risk aversion as a result of the climate of volatility generated by fears about Greece's fiscal situation.

Price of gold recorded US$ 1,131.4 a troy ounce

On March 2, the price of gold recorded US$ 1,131.4 a troy ounce.

In February, the average price of gold fell 1.8 percent to US$ 1,097.2 from US$ 1,117.5 a troy ounce in January.

The fall in the price of gold was associated with the appreciation of the dollar and with the IMF's announcement that it would sell its remainder of gold (191 tons) through open market operations during 2010.

The price of copper posted US$ 3.34/pound on March 2.

In February, the average price of copper fell 7.3 percent, from US$ 3.35 in January to US$ 3.11 a pound.

The price of copper was driven by the greater availability of inventories in global stock markets, by unfavorable indicators of economic activity in Europe, and by China's lower imports of refined copper and Japan's higher production.

resumen informativo

On March 2 the price of zinc rose to US$ 1.00/pound.

In February, the average price of zinc recorded a decline of 11.4 percent when it fell from US$ 1.10 in January to US$ 0.98/pound.

The decline of the price of this basic metal was mainly associated with expectations of lower demand (China), with the appreciation of the dollar, and with the increase of inventories in the main metal exchange stock markets.

On March 2, the average price of WTI oil increased to US$ 79.7 per barrel.

In February, the average price of WTI oil fell to US$ 76.3/barrel from US$ 78.2 in January (2.4 percent).

This price drop is explained on the one hand by the higher availability of crude in the United States (due to lower demand), as reported by the US Energy Department, and by concerns about a new contraction of global demand associated with financial problems in Europe.

US dollar appreciated against the euro in February

In February, the dollar appreciated on average 4.1 percent against the euro.

This evolution of the US currency against the euro reflected uncertainty about fiscal conditions in Greece.

The dollar depreciated on average 1.2 percent against the yen due to increased risk aversion which reverted carry trade operations.

On March 2, the exchange rate was US$ 1.36 per euro and 88.7 yen per US dollar.

resumen informativo

Yield on US Treasuries declined to 3.67 percent on average in February

In February, on average terms the 3-month Libor remained constant at 0.25 percent, while the yield on the 10-year Treasury bond declined from 3.71 in January to 3.67 percent.

The yield on the US Treasuries declined as a result of higher risk aversion among investors.

On March 2, the 3-month Libor recorded 0.25 percent and the yield on the 10-year US Treasury bond recorded 3.61 percent.

Lima Stock Exchange grew 1.5 percent

At March 2, the General and Blue Chip indices of the Lima Stock Exchange (LSE) had grown 1.5 and 1.7 percent, respectively.

In February, these indices showed negative results recording -3.0 percent and -3.4 percent, respectively.

The lower levels of the LSE indices during February was associated with the decline of the international prices of metals and with global market pessimism, which led to negative results in Wall Street.

Year-to-date, the indices of the LSE show mixed evolutions: the general index has accumulated gains of 0.3 percent, while the selective index has accumulated a loss of 0.5 percent.
