National Consumer Price Index

In compliance with the provisions of article 1 of Law 29438 approved by Congress, as from January 2012 the National Institute of Statistics (INEI) will publish the national consumer price index (CPI). This index provides information on the prices of a basket of 758 goods and services based on the data collected each month using a sample of 117 food markets and 21,200 commercial and services establishments (approximately 115,790 price data are collected each month).

The index provides information on the prices paid by consumers in the urban areas of 26 of the country's major cities, which includes twenty-four departmental capital cities and two non-capital cities (Chimbote and Tarapoto).

The base period for the new national consumer price index will be December 2011 = 100. The weights reflect the importance of households' expenditure in goods and services relative to their total consumption based on the data collected in the 2008-2009 consumption survey (ENAPREF 2008-2009).

The national inflation rate in January was -0.03 percent. The drop in some prices which contributed to this rate should be pointed out: inter-provincial bus fares dropped 8.9 percent, telephone rates fell 1.4 percent, and fuels used in transport vehicles declined 2.4 percent.

International Markets

Average country risk at 219 basis points in January

In January, the average country risk, measured by the EMBIG Peru spread, rose to 219 basis points from 217 basis points in December.

Likewise, the debt spread of the Latin American region rose 6 bps due to continued uncertainty in European financial markets.

Average price of gold in January: US$ 1,654.2 per troy ounce

In January, the price of gold rose 0.7 percent and reached an average price of US$ 1,654.2 per troy ounce.

The price of gold rose during the month due to increased demand for this metal as a hedge and investment asset amid renewed fears about Europe's financial situation. The upward trend in the price of gold was offset by the appreciation of the dollar against the euro.

The price of copper rose 6.0 percent in January to an average of US$ 3.64 per pound.

This rise in the price of copper was associated with the lower level of inventories in the major global stock exchange markets and with China's higher demand (imports of refined copper registered record levels in December). Moreover, this price rise was also favored by the probability that China will ease credit controls.

resumen informativo

In January, the price of zinc rose 3.2 percent and reached a monthly average price of US$ 0.90 per pound.

The price of zinc rose in line with expectations of a lower global supply and reports of the International Lead and Zinc Study Group (ILZSG) indicating that the global demand for zinc had increased between January and November 2011.

The price of WTI oil rose 1.7 percent in January and reached an average price of US$ 100.1 per barrel.

The evolution of the price of crude is mainly explained by continued geopolitical risks in the Middle East. Other aspects favoring this rise included data showing a reduction of oil inventories in the United States and record levels of imports of crude by China in December.

On average, the dollar appreciated against the euro in January

In January the dollar appreciated 2.7 percent against the euro on average.

This evolution of the US currency reflected persistent risk aversion due to continued uncertainty in European financial markets.

On the other hand, the dollar depreciated 1.2 percent against the yen.

Yield on US Treasuries declined on average to 1.94 percent in January

On average terms, in January the 3-month Libor declined 1 basis point and the yield on the 10 year-US Treasuries declined 4 basis points to 1.94 percent.

Risk aversion in financial markets due to continuous fears about the Eurozone situation generated a higher preference for US Treasury bonds.

3-MONTH LIBOR AND 10-YEAR US TREASURIES

(January 2010 - January 2012)

Annual profitability in the Lima Stock Exchange reaches 12.7 percent

In January, the General and the Selective Indices of the Lima Stock Exchange (LSE) rose 12.7 and 10.7 percent, respectively, in line with the rises registered in the indices of the main stock markets in the region.

The positive results of the LSE indices were associated with the good prospects for the companies listed in the local stock exchange as well as with the rise observed in the prices of both basic and precious metals.
