As of July 31, the monetary base has increased by S/ 1.59 billion compared to the end of June due to an increase in banks' demand for liquidity, which tends to be high in this month due to a seasonal effect. In this context, BCRP injected liquidity through the net placement of currency repos (S/ 300 million), the net maturity of CDBCSP (S/ 909 million), and the net maturity of term deposits (S/ 190 million), offset in part by the maturity of security repos (S/ 1.47 billion). The reduction of the public sector deposits held at BCRP (S/ 1.24 billion) contributed to the expansion of the monetary base as well.

In the last 12 months, la monetary base has increased by 6.0 percent, mainly as a result of a 6.0 percent increase of currency issued in the same period, associated with the growth of economic activity.

SHORT-TERM YIELD CURVES

So far in July, as of July 31, the yield curve of CDBCRP shows lower values than those observed at the end of June.

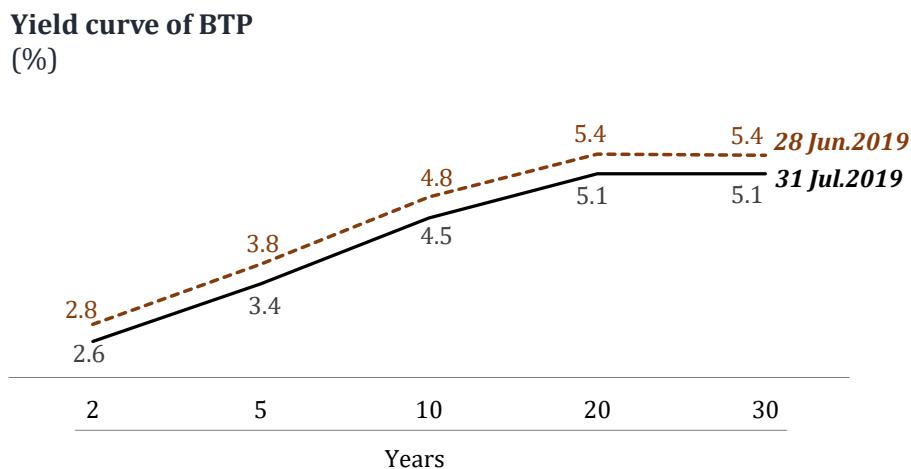

BCRP Certificates of Deposit (CD BCRP) are a monetary sterilization instrument that can be traded in the market or used in interbank repos or in repos with BCRP. The yields in the representative terms –3 months to 18 months– provide a guide for short-term financial operations. The shape of this yield curve is influenced by expectations of future monetary policy rates and by liquidity conditions in the market.

INTERNATIONAL MARKETS

International price of gold remained in July 24 – July 31

In the week of July 24 – 31, the price of gold remained at US$ 1,427.6 the troy ounce.

This result was consistent with the appreciation of the dollar and the renewed trade disputes.

In the same period, the price of copper fell 0.9 percent to US$ 2.69 a pound.

The reduction in the price reflected the downturn of manufacturing activity in China.

On the other hand, in July 24 – 31, the price of zinc fell 1.2 percent to US$ 1.10 the pound.

The reduction in the price of zinc was explained by the recovery of inventories and the lower global demand.

The price of WTI oil rose 5.2 percent to US$ 58.6 the barrel in the week of July 24 to July 31.

This performance was associated with the reduction of crude oil inventories in the United States and with the lower production of the fuel by the OPEC.

Maize price

(US$/ton.)

The price of maize fell 6.6 percent to US$ 157.1 per ton in July 24 – 31.

This price fall performance was influenced by the possible presence of some rains, which would favor the crop in the United States.

In the same period, the price of soybean oil dropped 1.9 percent to US$ 603.6 a ton.

This result was influenced by the fall in the price of palm oil, which was partly offset by the increased demand of the grain.

Evolution of US$ per Euro (US$/Euro)

In the week of July 24–31, the dollar appreciated 0.6 percent against the euro, according to comments of the Fed Chairman Jerome Powell, who constrain expectations about future drops in the US interest rate.

FED index (January 06=100)

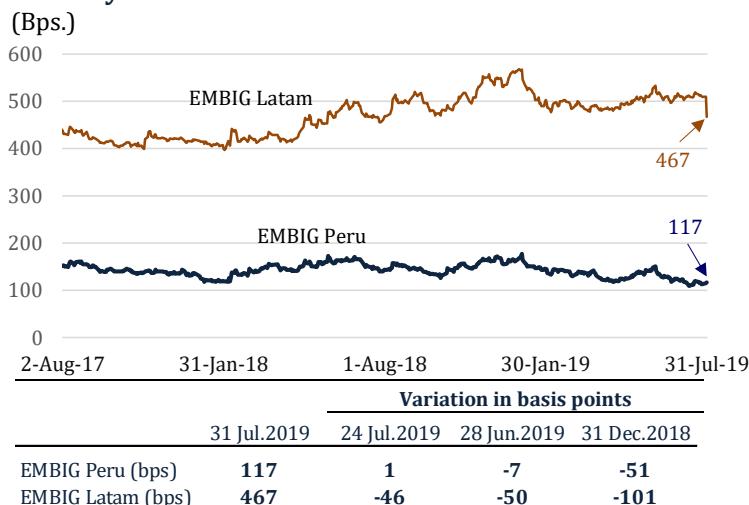

The US dollar has been appreciating against most other currencies since January 2013, as reflected in the evolution of the FED index. This appreciation of the dollar is associated with expectations that the Federal Reserve (FED) will start normalizing its interest rates.

Country risk at 117 basis points

In July 24–31, the country risk indicator, measured by the EMBIG Peru spread, rose from 116 bps to 117 bps.

On the other hand, in the same period the EMBIG LatinAmerica spread fell 46 bps to 467 bps, due to a decrease in the FED interest rate and expectations of greater monetary easing of other central banks.

3-Month Libor rate (%)

In the same period, the 3-month Libor fell 2 bps to 2.25 percent, amid expectations of greater monetary easing by the European Central Bank.

INDICES OF THE LIMA STOCK EXCHANGE

In July 24–31, the General Index (IGBVL–Peru General) of the Lima Stock Exchange (LSE) fell 3.9 percent while the Selective Index (ISBVL–Lima 25) dropped 3.0 percent.

This performance was associated with the lower international price of metal commodities.

Year-to-date, the General Index has risen 3.1 percent, while the Selective Index has fallen 4.5 percent.
