- ii. Overnight deposits: The balance of this instrument on October 29 was S/ 829 million, with an average interest rate of 1.3 percent. At end-September the balance was S/ 2.37 billion, with the same average interest rate.
- iii. Currency repos: On October 29, the balance of regular currency repos was S/ 11.75 billion, with an interest rate of 3.9 percent. On the other hand, the balance at end-September was S/ 11.45 billion, with a similar interest rate. Like at the end of September, credit expansion repos and credit substitution repos showed zero balances.
- iv. Security repos: The balance of security repos on October 29 was S/ 3.30 billion with an average interest rate of 4.0 percent, while this balance at the end of September was S/ 4.30 billion, with an average interest rate of 3.8 percent.
- v. Term deposits: On October 29, the balance of term deposits was S/ 500 million, with an interest rate of 2.4 percent. At the end of September, term deposits showed a zero balance.
- vi. Auctions of Treasury funds: The balance of this instrument on October 29 was S/ 4.10 billion, with an average interest rate of 4.2 percent, the same balance as that registered at the end of September.

In its foreign exchange operations, BCRP showed a short position of US$ 623 million on October 29.

- i. BCRP did not intervene in the spot market.
- ii. FX Swaps-sell: The balance of this instrument on October 29 was S/ 300 million (US$ 85 million), with an average interest rate of 1.1 percent. At the end of September, this instrument showed a balance of S/ 2.40 billion (US$ 708 million), with an average interest rate of 1.0 percent.

As of October 29, the monetary base increased by S/ 211 million compared to the end of September, mainly as a result of a higher demand for currency. In addition, the reduction of public sector deposits at BCRP increased the monetary base by S/ 144 million. In this context, BCRP injected liquidity through the net placement of currency repos (S/ 300 million) and the net maturity of term deposits (S/ 1.04 billion). These operations were in part offset by the net maturity of security repos (S/ 1.00 billion) and net placements of CDBCRRP (S/ 914 million). In addition to this, the Central Bank bought foreign currency for a total of US$ 152 million (S/ 511 million) from the Public Sector.

In the last 12 months, the monetary base has increased by 5.7 percent, mainly as a result of the 5.2 percent increase observed in the banknotes and coins issued in the same period, in line with the expansion of economic activity.

SHORT-TERM YIELD CURVES

So far this month, as of October 29, the yield curve of CD BCRP shows lower values than those observed at the end of September.

BCRP Certificates of Deposit (CD BCRP) are a monetary sterilization instrument that can be traded in the market or used in interbank repos or in repos with BCRP. The yields in the representative terms –3 months to 18 months– provide a guide for short-term financial operations. The shape of this yield curve is influenced by expectations of future monetary policy rates and by market liquidity conditions.

INTERNATIONAL MARKETS

International prices of copper and zinc up

In the week of October 23-29, the price of copper rose 1.8 percent to US$ 2.67 the pound.

This price is associated with fears of the effects that social protests in Chile may have on copper production as well as with the reduction of global inventories.

Copper Price
(cUS$/pound)

In the same period, the price of zinc climbed 3.0 percent to US$ 1.17 the pound.

This rise is in line with the decline of inventories, which has increased fears of a tight market of this metal.

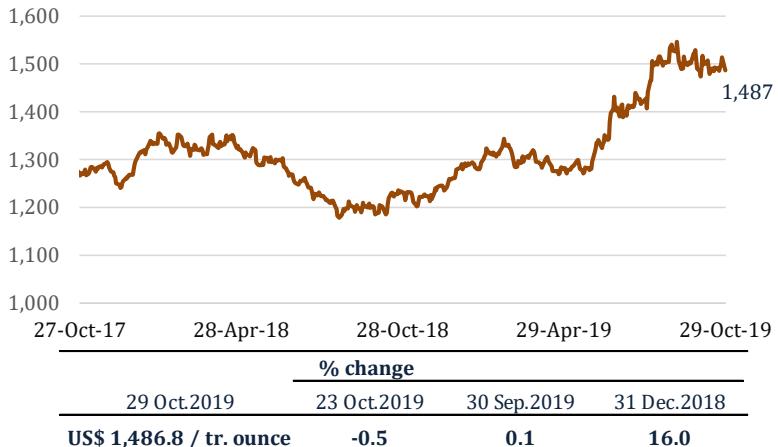

Zinc Price
(ctv. US$/pound.)

In the week of October 23 to October 29, the price of gold fell 0.5 percent to US$ 1,486.8 the troy ounce.

This price fall is associated with the strengthening of the US dollar.

Gold Price (US$/tr. ounce)

The price of WTI oil fell 0.4 percent to US$ 55.5 the barrel in October 23–October 29.

This lower price is explained by the increase of crude inventories in the United States.

WTI Oil Price (US$/barrel)

Prices of wheat and maize fell in international markets

In October 23 – October 29, the international price of wheat dropped 0.9 percent to US$ 154.0 the ton.

This price fall is explained by favorable weather conditions for the cultivation of winter crops in the United States.

Wheat price (US$/ton.)

In the same period, the price of maize fell 0.8 percent to US$ 148.8 a ton.

The price of maize was affected by prospects of an earlier-than-expected harvest of this grain.

Maize price (US$/ton.)

On the other hand, in October 23 – October 29, the price of soybean oil rose 1.4 percent to US$ 681.7 a ton.

This price rise was supported by expectations of higher demand.

Soybean oil price (US$/ton.)

US Dollar appreciated in international markets

In October 23 – October 29, the dollar appreciated 0.2 percent against the euro, influenced by reports indicating favorable employment data in the United States.

Evolution of US$ per Euro

The US dollar has been strengthening against most other currencies in recent years, as reflected in the evolution of the FED index. This appreciation of the dollar is associated with expectations that the Federal Reserve (FED) will start normalizing its interest rates and, more recently, with the easing of monetary policy by other central banks.

Country risk fell to 121 basis points

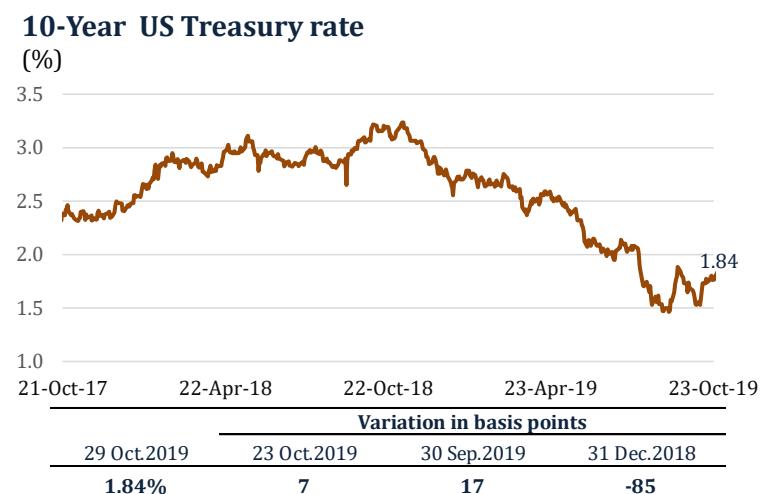

In October 23 – October 29, the country risk indicator, measured by the EMBIG Peru spread, fell from 123 to 121 bps.

In the same period, the EMBIG LatinAmerica spread decreased by 5 bps to 453 bps amid greater optimism concerning global trade.

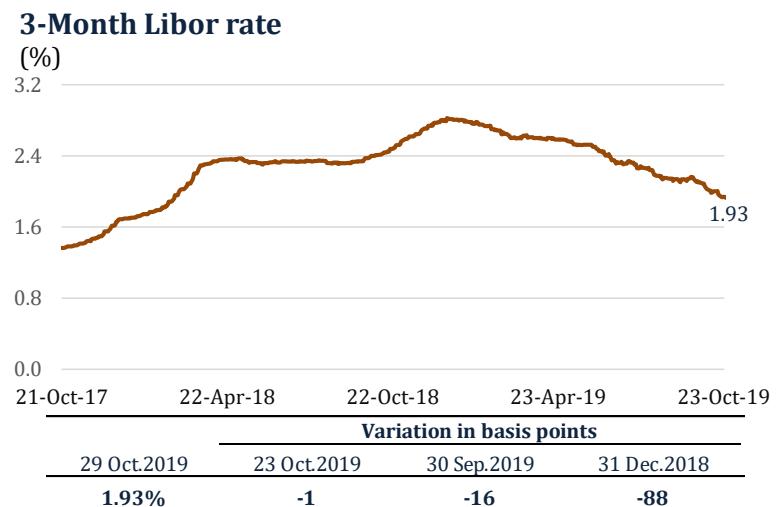

Yield on 10-year US Treasuries rose to 1.84 percent

In the week of October 23 – October 29, the yield on the 10-year Treasury bonds rose 7 bps to 1.84 percent, influenced by a lower demand for these bonds associated with lower trade tensions and with lower noise in the Brexit negotiations.

In the same period, the 3-month Libor fell 1 bp to 1.93 percent, amid greater optimism concerning the Brexit.

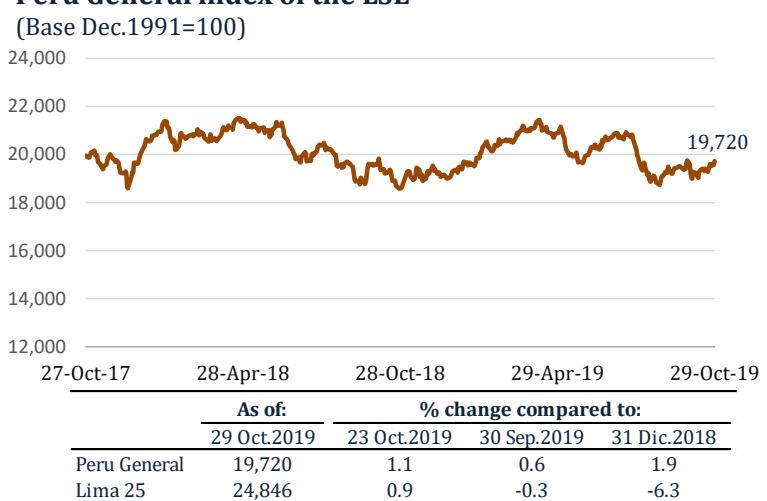

INDICES OF THE LIMA STOCK EXCHANGE

In October 23 – October 29, the General Index (IGBVL-Peru General) of the Lima Stock Exchange (LSE) rose 1.1 percent and the Selective Index (ISBVL-Lima 25) rose 0.9 percent.

The conduct of the LSE indices is explained by the increase in the international prices of metals.

Year-to-date, the General Index of the LSE has risen 1.9 percent, while the Selective Index has fallen 6.3 percent.
