INTERNATIONAL MARKETS

Copper and zinc prices rise in international markets

From July 19 to July 26, copper prices increased by 2.2 percent to US$ 3.87 per pound. This was associated with promises of Chinese authorities who said they would support their economy, especially the real estate market. The price rise was partly offset by the increase in global inventories.

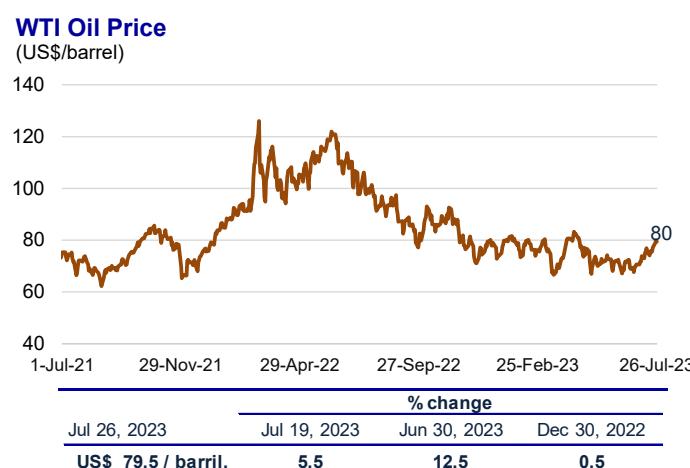

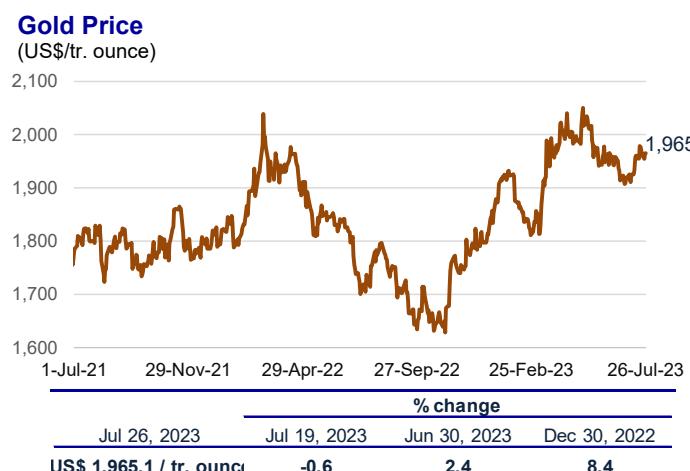

In the same period, the price of zinc increased by 4.5 percent to US$ 1.11 per pound. This increase is associated with expectations of further stimulus from the Chinese government to boost its economy.

Between July 19 and July 26, the price of gold declined by 0.6 percent to US$ 1,965.1 the troy ounce.

This decline mainly reflected the appreciation of the dollar against other major currencies following data from the United States showing improved economic activity.

The price of WTI oil climbed 5.5 percent in the week of July 19 to July 26 and reached US$ 79.5 per barrel. The higher price was supported by fears of a tighter supply due to crude oil production cuts in Saudi Arabia and Russia. Another factor that added to this was optimism about stimulus in China and the resilience of the US economy.

Wheat and maize prices decline in international markets

Between July 19 and July 26, the price of wheat fell 0.2 percent to US$ 352.8 per metric ton. This result was influenced by the progress of the winter harvest in the northern hemisphere and the rapid progress of exports from Russia. All of these countered fears that Russia's attacks on Ukrainian ports would increase the price of agricultural products.

In the same period, the price of maize declined by 1.1 percent to US$ 226.5 per metric ton.

The decline is explained by the rapid advance of the record crop in Brazil and by rains that brought relief to regions in the United States still experiencing moisture deficits.

The price of soybean oil rose 6.2 percent to US$ 1,636.9 per ton between July 19 and July 26.

The price rise was influenced by the increase in oil prices.

Dollar appreciates in international markets

In the same period, the dollar index rose 0.8 percent, against a backdrop of a significant increase in July consumer confidence in the United States. This rise was offset by the comments of the Fed representatives who said that further actions will depend on the data, despite the recent increase in interest rates by 25 bps. The dollar appreciated against the euro (1 percent).

Country risk at 173 basis points

Between July 19 and July 26, measured by the EMBIG Peru spread, remained unchanged at 173 bps.

On the other hand, the EMBIG Latin America decreased by 4 bps to 410 bps, in a context of an upward revision of global economic growth for this year and high investor appetite for risk.

The interest rate on Peru's 10-year sovereign bonds, which declined by 1 bp to 6.8 percent between July 19 and July 26, remains one of the lowest in the region.

Yield on US Treasury bonds at 3.87 percent

In the same period, the yield on the US Treasury bond increased by 12 bps to 3.87 percent, influenced by the IMF's upward revision of global economic growth for 2023 and improved consumer confidence in the United States.

INDICES OF THE LIMA STOCK EXCHANGE RISE

From July 19 to July 26, the General Index of the Lima Stock Exchange (IGBVL-Peru General) rose by 1.3 percent and the Selective Index (ISBVL-Lima 25) rose by 0.1 percent. The indices of the LSE were influenced by the rise in the price of basic metals and high-risk appetite.
