INTERNATIONAL MARKETS

Metal prices increase in international markets

Between December 20 and 27, the price of copper rose 0.5 percent to USD 3.86 the pound after industrial profits in China grew more than expected in November, as well as a drop in inventories at the London Metal Exchange.

From December 20 to 27, the price of zinc rose 1.7 percent to USD 1.18 the pound on concerns of lower supply in China as many refiner face problems of lower margins and shutdowns due to high pollution.

In the same period, the gold price increased 2 percent to USD 2,077.5 the ounce.

The higher price was associated with the depreciation of the dollar against major currencies and the fall in U.S. Treasury bond yields.

The price of WTI oil rose 0.2 percent to USD 74.1 the barrel between December 20 to December 27, due to geopolitical tensions in the Middle East, partially capped by Maersk's announcement of a restart of shipping routes through the Red Sea that has eased supply concerns.

Soybean price decreases in international markets

Between December 20 and 27, the price of soybean oil fell 3.8 percent to USD 1,108.5 per metric ton due to good environmental conditions for soybean cultivation in Argentina.

From December 20-27, the price of wheat rose 1.4 percent to USD 268.2 the ton, affected by problems on the Black Sea shipping route, a key grain transport route. This increase was partially reversed by profit-taking after some large carriers announced their return to the Red Sea route.

The price of maize rose 1.8 percent to USD 171.6 per metric ton between December 20 and 27, due to prospects of lower Brazilian production in the 2023/24 season because of the less area allocated to the crop.

Dollar depreciates in international markets

In the analyzed period, the dollar index decreased 1.4 percent, following lower inflation data (PCE from 2.9% to 2.6%) that raised expectations of further interest rate cuts by the Fed during 2024.

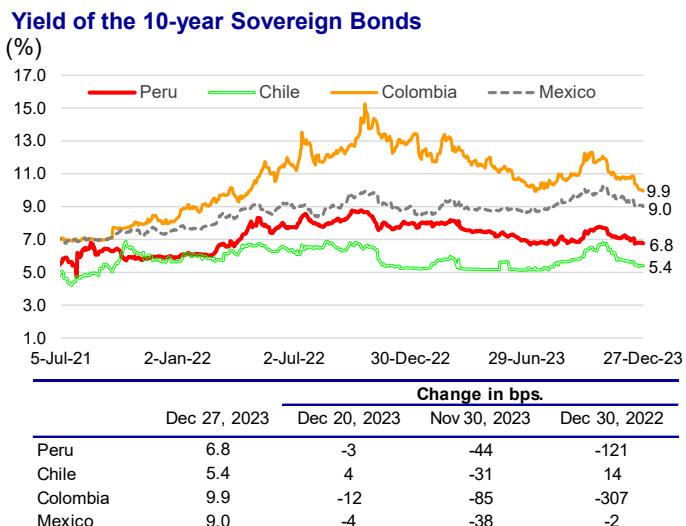

Country risk at 167 basis points

From December 20 to 27, country risk, as measured by the EMBIG Peru and EMBIG Latin America spreads, rose 3 bps and 2 bps, respectively, in line with the reduction in US Treasury bond yields.

The interest rate on 10-year Peruvian sovereign bonds which decreased 3 bps between December 20 and 27, remains one of the lowest in the region.

Yield on US Treasury bonds at 3.80 percent

From December 20-27, the yield on the 10-year US Treasury bond declined 5 bps to 3.80 percent, influenced by the expectation of an easing of the Fed's monetary policy during 2024.
