INTERNATIONAL MARKETS

Metal prices declined on international markets

Between July 22 and 30, the price of copper on the London market fell by 1.2 percent to USD/pound. 4.40.

The lower price was driven by an increase in inventories on the London Metal Exchange, in a context where the United States excluded tariffs on concentrated and refined copper.

In the same period, the price of zinc decreased by 1.0 percent to USD/pound. 1.27.

The price was mainly influenced by concerns that U.S. tariffs could affect metal demand.

Between July 22 and 30, the price of gold fell by 4.6 percent to USD/tr. ounce. 3,275.2.

The decline in price was due to the appreciation of the U.S. dollar and optimism regarding progress in trade negotiations between the United States and its main trading partners.

The price of WTI crude oil rose by 5.7 percent to USD/barrel 70.0 between July 22 and 30.

Maize and soybean prices fell on international markets

The price of wheat fell by 3.1 percent to USD/ton 213.8 between July 22 and 30.

The decline was explained by the entry into the commercial circuit of supply from the Northern Hemisphere.

The decrease was due to the generally good condition of crops in the United States and the pressure from the start of Brazil's grain harvest.

From July 22 to 30, the price of soybean oil rose by 3.1 percent to USD/ton 1,279.7.

This trend was mainly associated with the increase in oil prices.

The yield on Peruvian 10-year sovereign bonds fell by 10 basis points between July 22 and 30 and remains among the lowest in the region.

US Treasury yields stood at 4.37 percent

Between July 22 and 30, the yield on the 10-year U.S. Treasury bond rose by 3 basis points to 4.37 percent, driven by the release of mostly positive U.S. economic data that reinforces expectations that the Federal Reserve will keep interest rates unchanged at its next meeting.
